She will need for her foundation material coarse Russian crash of rather open weave; or if this is too heavy for summer wear, linen may be substituted. The embroideries are of coarse in the bold Russian reds, blues and greens with a touch here and there of black to add character and blend the strong colors. The motifs represent Russian emblems in which the Greek cross predominates. The front of the blouse is slashed down several inches and then laced together with cord.

Dainty as these styles pictured are, they are all intended for out of door wear—as attested by the welted soles and not exaggerated heels. Two smart patent leather pumps are shown, a colonial pump of tan leather and a very modish little shoe of patent leather and white kid. Dennis is said to represent himself as a prophet of the Restored Church of the Messiah and has engaged in missionary work in Topeka during several months past. He has been associated with Evangelist F. D. Delk, who has operated what he calls a city mission here for a number of months.

The first complaint was made by Dan-The first complaint was made by Dan-lel Klee, who protests that his son has fallen victim of his own intensely re-ligious nature. a Nazarene mission in Michigan for some time, two or three years," sair the younger Klee this morning, "but this is not really the church itself. The true church is the Restored Church of the Messiah. I understand the head-quarters are in Denver. I did not become much intrested in it until Dennis told me my real scriptural name. It is "Reuben." I had found that in the Bible and of course knew Dennis was right, when he came to rea and told me right when he came to me and told me

"His scriptural name is 'Israel.' The world is soon to be turned over to the 'rightful heirs.' You can find the prophecy in the Bible. It will come to pass soon—within the next thousand years or so. Delk, whose scriptural name is 'Judah,' wanted to give me a receipt for the first $30, but it was written on a piece of the Bible and I wouldn't have it. I think I made the first payment about the time King Edward died. The comet had just crossed and it was time for the seventh trumpet to blow so you see everything indicated that it was just everything indicated that it was just about time for the prophecies to be ful-filled.

"I don't want the money. It belongs to the Lord and they told me I will get a hundred fold in the next world. I'm undertaking establishment for six a hundred fold in the next world. I'm days until the local Catholic church not just sure they are all right. I don't

During the few weeks since the first payment a total of about $1,134 has been turned over by Klee to "Israel"

The matter was first brought to the a d Workers of America and James Elliott resumed their conference on the local miners' strike here this afternoon it was understood they had reached a tentative agreement in which both sides had made concessions.

The matter was first brought to the attention of the country authorities by the father of the man who gave away his money. The people who got it were at first reported to be connected with the American Salvation Army, but that proved erroneous. Klee, the elder, says proved erroneous. Klee, the elder, says his son is a religious fanatic and that the alleged prophets talked him out of everything he had before he, the fath-er, discovered it. Dennis, otherwise known as Abraham, Israel and Schuyler, is a patriarchal looking elderly man with a flowing, black beard. He discoursed at some length to the county attorney this morning upon their religious propagands and it is not improbable that the prophet genuinely proposed to em-ploy the money in his strange religious propaganda. County Attorney Schenck had not authorized any arrests late this after-noon, but it is probable that he will do so in order to thresh out the peculiar case to the bottom.
